Cyclic Altitude Conditioning Sessions

Cyclic Variations in Altitude Conditioning (CVAC), a patent-pending process, consists of various altitudes arranged into precise patterns. Each CVAC session contains a number of maneuvers involving multiple transits to target pressures; and consists of an estimated 300-500 cyclic altitude changes within a 20-minute period. The targets and consequent transits, pressure and temperature changes are arranged to fit the specific requirements of an individual's body via pulse-sequence profiles. Some believe that these dynamic changes in oxygen content, air pressure and temperature stimulate the entire body and increase the oxygen-carrying capacity of the blood. This is your chance to try this new treatment (five sessions) and see if it works for you!
